LOCAL AND GENERAL.

We are requested to state that the Band and Pipes of the 74th Highlanders will not perform in the Public Gardens this evening.

We learn that the S.S. Oceanic, from San Francisco Sept. 17th, has arrived at Yokohama and will sail for Hongkong on Thursday morning next.

Mr Justice Russell only sat for a short time in the Summary Jurisdiction Court to-day, and the Court was adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow, in order to give every one an opportunity to look after their property in this unsettled weather. Two cases—one for photographs and the other for tailoring—were decided against Mr De Lille, but the other cases concluded to-day were of no public interest.

HEAVY GALE IN HONGKONG.

A severe gale, or we might almost say a typhoon, was experienced here to-day. The barometer at 4 o'clock yesterday registered 29.90, and there were really no indications of any severe weather until this morning. At 7 a.m. to-day the wind was blowing in fitful gusts, accompanied by showers of rain, and the glass fell a little. At 9 o'clock it stood at 29.75, and grave fears were entertained that bad weather was approaching. The Acting Harbour Master gave orders for the ball to be hoisted, and a gun was accordingly fired from the Police Bunk as a warning to the shipping to do all that was necessary on such an occasion. The Humane Society's men were called upon to assemble and readily responded to the call. It had been blowing fresh from the N.W. at 7 a.m., the tide being then very high, in fact nearly level with the Praya wall; and a number of the sailors residing at the Sailor's Home, headed by Inspector Thomson, a number of the police, Mr Arthur (a member of the Humane Society), Mr Leatherbarrow, and others, were on the alert to do all that lay in their power as occasion required. Nor was this spontaneous action on their part without good results; the wind which at first only blew in fitful gusts, gradually increased, hauling mean while round by north to the eastward, and by 11 o'clock the squalls or rather puffs, were more frequent and furious, and a heavy sea had arisen rendering life at sea dangerous. By far the greater number of boats had, of course, taken refuge long before this time, but there were large numbers found napping and the Praya was very soon strewn with portions of these unfortunate craft.

It is of course impossible to relate all the accidents and narrow escapes which occur in such a calamity, but we are in a position to truthfully say that upwards of 250 lives were saved by the aid of the Humane Society, the police, and sailors residing at the Home; and too much praise cannot be afforded the latter, who worked well and manfully, in fact, in one instance two men whose names have not been traced swam off to a sampan with a rope and brought some poor women on shore. Acts of gallantry were performed by many others—the Humane Society's men were especially conspicuous, and are known to have saved upwards of thirty lives. Four were rescued by Mr White (late of the Stag), and a woman with her child was most miraculously snatched from a watery grave by a few gentlemen at the Canton Steamer Wharf, amongst whom we noticed the Hon. P. Ryrie, Inspectors Matheson and Oradock, Captain McMurdo and three or four others whose names we were not familiar with. There were not, so far as we have been able to learn, any disasters amongst the shipping in harbour, but the steam-launches, junk, cargo-boats and other small fry suffered considerably. Of the former no less than six launches were sunk, and one was so considerably damaged that she may be considered almost a wreck. The S.S. Yezo steamed away from the wharf about 3 p.m. to seek shelter on the opposite shore; and the Albatross followed about an hour later. It was at one time feared that the S.S. Yezo would drift on top of the Namoa; she was seen to be dragging rapidly in that direction, and had it not been that the Namoa herself dragged and the fact of the gale abating, we might probably have had to chronicle a most serious disaster. Nearly all the steamers in the harbour had steam up, and some found it necessary to steam full speed ahead to prevent them from dragging. The little steamer Santa dragged her anchors, and as soon as steam was got up she was got under weigh and made for Cap-Sui-Moon, where she cruised about in a most mysterious manner. That numerous narrow escapes were made there can be no doubt, and there cannot be two opinions that numbers were owing their safety to the fact of the gale occurring in the daytime and the vigilance of foreigners on shore, who spared no effort to render help where needed; but we still fear that numbers must have lost their lives in the gale. One of the P. & O. Co.'s cargo boats was sunk, and three or four men were seen clinging to the masts; what became of them we have not heard, but it was generally believed they had perished, although there were many willing and able hands to man a life-boat, if there had been one to man. Mr Kwok Ah-chong suffered considerably by the gale. It was found necessary to scuttle the old Union, which would inevitably have been smashed to pieces, as she lay alongside the Praya Wall opposite the old Peninsular and Oriental Factory; and a new steam-launch belonging to him sustained damage to the amount of some £400; had it not been for the praiseworthy exertions of Messrs Johnson and Holmes, she would have been smashed to atoms, as it is, she lies with her engines completely destroyed, super structure all, and other damages of a minor detail. Dr Young's launch was cleverly saved by a few European seamen, who jumped on board of her from a junk which had grounded. The crew of the launch had apparently concluded to let her and themselves take their chance, and drift as she listed; but the timely arrival of some good men and true saved her, and she was stored into a safe haven under McDonald's Patent Slip. The Praya suffered no considerable damage; large rents and holes were made along its whole length, and had the gale lasted much longer the pigeon-holing of the papers and plan, relating to the New Praya Scheme might have given serious cause for regret. As it is, a few hundred dollars will be required to repair the damage, and make it as bad as it was before. Opposite the new houses a little to the West of the Harbour Master's office, the whole structure—which by the way is comparatively new—has sunk several feet and is completely covered at high water. The whole length of the water frontage was more or less strewn with wreckage of boats. The Bath-house of course came in for a share of damage, and the funds of that popular institution will suffer slightly in consequence.

We noticed that the Chinese residing at Praya West have a novel kind of typhoon shelter, consisting of a number of boards nailed across their shop fronts and runways, and had their wooden awnings moored with large stones attached to ropes. The damage to junks and native boats in the Western section of the harbour is very great; they were piled up en masse opposite the P. & O. Factory, and as the tide receded, rents and large holes could be seen in their bottoms. One junk, which was a complete wreck, had drifted across the end of a pier near Howard's Wharf, and after lying there for two or three hours, she by some means got clear, and drifted out to sea westward. Englishmen, in common with most others, admire pluck, even when exercised in a bad cause, and we had an opportunity of witnessing three plucky Celestial rascals to-day, who, during the worst of the weather, were cruising about in a small boat examining every stray piece of wreckage they came across. It is almost unnecessary to say that they did not molest the derelict (?) junk we have mentioned, but without some attention. As a matter of course, there was a considerable amount of looting going on; but the police, whatever their former shortcomings may have been, in some people's opinion, were most energetic both in saving life, and preventing crime. Had the gale occurred at night, the loss of life must have been very severe, and our dear criminals would have had a good time off. In fact, we met some of the long-spear gentlemen, and one of those pitiful rascals who figured so bravely in Wing Lok Street not many days ago. We, of course, with some reliance enquired from whence they came and whether they were bound, and were informed that they were honest (?) traders saved from a watery grave and the ugly weapons were the only portion of their worldly goods they had saved. We believed them and moved on. That there has been a severe typhoon raging not many miles away is not to be doubted, but we did not get much more than the edge of it. The wind was not severe, in fact was little felt in the town, but the sea was very heavy, and has to be debited with the damages sustained. The temperature of the water was very high, considering the time of the year, is a somewhat noteworthy fact. Another strange thing is that the barometer did not fall very low, the lowest reading of the day at Messrs Falconer's being only 29.65. Preserving this led us to-day to endeavour to play the part of our readers, and the result shows we were not in error, so far as property on shore is concerned. At all events, we can congratulate ourselves that the gale was no worse.

JOTTINGS ALONG THE PRAYA.

We, of course, in common with many others, took a ramble along the Praya, which was crowded with a heterogeneous mass of humanity—all attracted by the powers of the elements. Some to save life, some as ready probably to take it; some to save property, some to steal it; but all to see what they could see. Perhaps the results of our observations may be found of some interest. The sea washed over the Praya wall along its whole length, heaving up a mass of debris. The "Humane" and numerous volunteers were posted along the Praya to act as occasion required, and they acted nobly and well, let those laugh who may. The shed over Peddar's Wharf was cut down. Douglas Lapralik's wharf was in much danger owing to cargo-boats having sought shelter there. The boats fared the worst however. Numbers of poor half-drowned creatures were saved there by the Humane. At Wanchi pier Mr Soier did good service. One of Messrs Blackhead's boats was in much danger from the proximity of the Namoa, but escaped. Two of Messrs Ingles & Co.'s launches were scuttled to save them from worse damage. Messrs Lane, Crawford & Co.'s and the Daily Press launch were served in a similar manner. The unfortunate Kate belonging to Messrs Lindsay & Co. was sunk at her moorings. Mr Aikhen had only got on shore a short time before the launch in which he had been was sunk.

Numbers of sampans were on the Praya. Vogel's Wharf was much cut up. A cargo boat was scuttled alongside the Canton Wharf, to prevent her damaging the Wharf, and a quantity of tea was in danger of damage from water on the wharf. The Canton and Macao Boats did not arrive to-day. The Canton steamers left here as usual in the morning. A P. & O. lighter was sunk off Central Street. One man—was rescued, with about 150 others, owing to the exertions of Inspector Thomson, Messrs Arthur, Leatherbarrow, P. O. Bond and numbers of sailors and police—was found to have a broken leg, and was sent to the Hospital. Ordes of "shame" were heard to issue from the mouths of some sailors when they saw the men clinging to the mast of No. 1 P. & O. cargo-boat, and were told that no boat was available. Twenty-three men were saved from a timber-laden junk by the police and sailors. The sea wall near Sand's Slip was much cut up, the jetty damaged and a shed blown down. Many boys, people, many idlers, many of those who knew all about the typhoons, many of those who had saved many number of lives, with many who didn't, and lastly, many scoundrels who ought to have been deported, and perhaps may yet be—were observed in the crowd along the Praya to-day.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."

Hongkong, 8th Oct., 1878.

SIR,—It is the opinion of many that some reliable information should be obtained with regard to the attempt made yesterday, to pack the Public Meeting, with Chinese.

These Barristers were present—as apologists for H. E. the Governor.

In the room in the City Hall, one of them, Mr Haylar, O. O., raised his hand, and instantly the entire body of Chinese did the same.

On the Cricket Ground, another, Mr Ng Choy, gave the Chinese a sign with his fan, when they immediately withdrew in a body. It is but fair to surmise that both of the above-named gentlemen were instrumental in the attempt to pack the Meeting, or at least had information that packing would be attempted.

It certainly should be known if this attempt at packing, which failed so signally, was in any way countenanced by H. E. the Governor, or if it was a gratuitous service, and unknown to him, on the part of some of his satellites.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
ONE OF THE 63.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL."

Hongkong, 8th October, 1878.

SIR,—Attempts have been made to make it appear that in consequence of a secret meeting held at the Tung Wah Hospital on Sunday, the large number of Chinese who went to the public meeting yesterday were packed to outvote the Europeans that were present. I will state in a few words what to my knowledge really occurred in connection with the public meeting. There was a meeting at the Tung Wah Hospital on Sunday, it is true; but it was not a secret one, the doors being open and any body might have gone in. When I went there, the meeting had already commenced, and during the time I was there, no measures were arranged to be taken to nullify the effect of any resolutions to be proposed at the City Hall meeting by voting against them and proposing counter ones. The meeting simply discussed the question whether we (Chinese) should attend the coming meeting, and it was decided that we should, as the meeting was to be a public one, and as some of the Chinese merchants had signed the requisition convening it. I explained to the meeting that foreigners express their approval or disapproval by holding up their hands, and that those who would attend should understand the nature of any resolution to be passed at that meeting and vote according to their own convictions. The desirability of having the substance of any resolution to be proposed explained in Chinese was then discussed, and it was finally decided that the promoters of the public meeting be requested to allow some English-speaking Chinese to act as interpreters on the occasion. The meeting then broke up.

At the public meeting yesterday I was glad to observe that a Chinese gentleman standing close to the Chairman who I understood was to be interpreter. I was very much surprised therefore to find that before the first resolution was put, it was not explained in Chinese; and on hearing several of my friends complaining that they did not know what was being done, I requested the Chairman to have the first resolution explained in Chinese, but when my fellow-countryman heard that my reasonable request was not complied with, they said they did not see the use of staying any longer and they all left. If there had been a pre-concerted plan to gag a full and independent discussion and expression of opinion or to stultify the object of the meeting, I and my fellow countrymen would certainly have supported and carried the amendment of Mr Francis to the first resolution, as our number was far exceeding that of the Europeans present, but we refrained from voting. This fact alone is enough to show that we did not come to defeat the object of the meeting but to vote each according to his own convictions.

Many public meetings have been held since the establishment of the Colony, but I think this was the first public meeting that my fellow-countrymen ever attempted to take part in. I am sorry that a little more consideration was not shown us, as I subsequently learnt that some of my fellow-countrymen would have readily supported one or two of the resolutions that were passed if they had been present and understood their meaning.

Yours faithfully,
NG CHOY.

[It seems curious that no reference has yet been made to the printed slips, containing a Chinese version of the resolutions, which were circulated. Where were they?—Ed. C. M.]

Japan.

YOKOHAMA.

(Gazette).

This morning (Sept. 24th) at half-past eight o'clock, as a junk named the Nisawa Maru was coming out from the anchorage at Kanagawa, she tried to pass ahead of the S. S. Co. steamer Yagunawa Maru, formerly Monow, and sister of the Kumamoto Maru. There were some sampans lying astern of the Kumamoto Maru, and the captain of the junk, to avoid running down the sampans, kept off, and before she could gather way, swung to leeward and carried away the jib-boom out of the Yagunawa Maru. After getting clear, the junk lowered her sail (which was torn) and the Captain went on board the Yagunawa Maru to see the extent of damage done.

The German Emeralda has been chartered to load with rice at Yokohama for Europe. The British four-masted ship Simla, 2754 tons register, Captain McGuire, arrived at Kanagawa Bay yesterday afternoon, seventy days from Bombay. The Simla is in ballast, bound to San Francisco, and was compelled to call at Yokohama for provisions, as those brought from Bombay have become unfit for use. As soon as his ship had safely cast anchor in Kanagawa Bay, which is about 25 miles from Yokohama, Captain McGuire came on overland, and with every possible despatch, procured a fresh supply of food, which was placed in a lighter and towed by the Reindeer to the Simla, and the latter vessel will proceed on her voyage to-morrow.

The Midvale is progressing on his tour through the provinces. A telegram was received in Tokio yesterday afternoon, announcing that the Imperial party had arrived at Uwotau, in the province of Kolin.

At 5.32 a.m. this morning, (Sept. 30th) there was a slight shock of earthquake.

According to a late issue of the Nogyo Zasshi, an American gentleman—name not mentioned—has been engaged for some time past in surveying the island of Yezo, as well as in making geological investigations. This gentleman is said to report that there are 7,000 square miles of ground in Yezo fit for agricultural purposes, 6,000 square miles suitable for pasture, 6,000 miles of forest, and 9,000 miles of volcanic mountains and mining country. If this is true it would seem as if the Government are making efforts to induce emigration to this thinly populated part of the Japanese Empire.

The Straits.

(Singapore Daily Times.)

We regret exceedingly to learn that, owing to illness, His Excellency the Governor was unable to leave for Batavia this morning (Sept. 24th) by the Emire, although passages had been secured for His Excellency, Lady Robinson and the Private Secretary. We are informed, and it is doubtless true, the public will be glad to hear, that the steamer Glenarney, which arrived here on the 20th instant, brought for the Colonial Treasury silver 5, 10, and 20 cent pieces to the value of $42,000. There should not, therefore, be much scarcity of small change for some little time at least. There should also have reached Penang by this time a supply of similar silver coins to the value of $18,000, as they were indentured for at the same time as for Singapore.

It seems that a proposal has been made by the Eastern Telegraph Company which is likely to meet with considerable opposition. It is to issue a universal code of 50,000 words selected from various languages, and to charge a single rate for each word in this code and a double rate for words not included in it. This proposal, we understand, will probably lead to nifted telegrams in India. There is no doubt that such a measure would seriously decrease nearly all the codes at present in use amongst mercantile houses. And it would put an absolute stop to the system of working with figures and translating into words—now so largely adopted, and which has been found in experience to be, by far, the most accurate method of transmitting messages over long distances.

The Spaniards appear to be losing no time in claiming their supposed rights under the recent Treaty which they forced on the Sultan of Sulu. According to the latest reports they have begun to show their teeth, in what seems to be a most unwarrantable and insulting manner, towards Sabah, and it would be well if Admiral Hillyar directed his telegraphs, intermittently southwards from Vladivostok to watch their doings, and despatch one of his little gunboats to the Sulu sea, just to see fair play and at all events preserve the national flag from insult. We have been informed that on the 3rd instant (Sept.) a Spanish gunboat, the Eldorado, steamed into Sandakan Bay, and ordered the Chief there to pull down the British Flag, which was flying, and hoist the Spanish Colors, as the country now belonged by the recent treaty to Spain. This Chief declined to do so, and it is said, declared he would resist by force any attempt to pull down the flag. The Eldorado then left, but with the threat that she would soon return with reinforcements to take possession. Malludu Bay and Tampassak were then visited by the Eldorado, and it is supposed the same scene was enacted in these two places, but what actually happened has not yet transpired. We have every reason to believe the information we have received to be correct, but for the present we refrain from comment upon this highly irregular and unseemly action of the Eldorado towards the flag of a friendly power.

THE PRINCE'S ENTOURAGE.

The members of the Marlborough House coterie are nearly all clever and amusing, and the minority, if not composed of those gifted with brilliant intellectual power, is certainly made up of people celebrated and remarkable for something. One may be quite certain when one sees H.R.H. on terms of intimacy with anyone, should that someone not be epigrammatic, brilliant and original in conversation, that he or she is in some way extraordinary, remarkable and out of the way. If it be a woman, it is probable she will be the most beautiful woman in London, or, quite as likely, the most ugly; at all events she will excel. If it be a man, he will either be the greatest fool, the greatest wit, the poorest, the richest, the thinnest, or the fattest man to be found in our island Society. He will either be celebrated for his adventures among the savages, for his amours, or even—we know a case in point—for his religious ecstasy. One horrible woman in London (would that we could mention her name, but we will have more pity for her than she for others, and call her Lady Blank—can't you guess who it is?) was taken up by the Prince not very long back, rather to her surprise, and greatly to her gratification and delight. Perhaps, however, she would not have been aware that H.R.H. tolerated her for a brief space within his inner circle, simply because she is par excellence the most malicious woman in London! To sum up: apart from those intimates chosen because of their brilliant conversational powers, pungent wit, or eminence in some high walk of art, the remaining minority of those who enjoy an official and familiar intercourse with our future Sovereign, resemble a museum of curiosities more than anything else—it would be hard and unjust, perhaps, to say a menagerie.

H.R.H. knows everybody (we are not speaking of him now, of course, as Prince of Wales, but as a private individual), men of every nationality, of every age, and almost of every rank of life. Odd looking men from Paris; still odder looking men from New York; journalists, doctors, bankers, solicitors, actors, even tradesmen. They one and all, however, have indelibly marked upon them the déshabillé d'extradinaire, and not a few of them live upon the bounty of their royal patron. We have already alluded to the generosity of His Royal Highness to his friends, and have said that by those whose desire it is to label every virtue as a vice, it might be termed Quixotism. The following incident, among many others, illustrating the truth of what has been said above, comes to our mind as we write. Not very long ago a certain man well known to us, and one enjoying comparative intimacy with the Prince of Wales, having lost a large sum of money to his ubiquitous friend, wrote to him an imploring letter, begging him to give him time to get the debt—three months being, if we remember rightly, the period named. The prayer was most kindly and cordially granted. It so happened, however, that fickle fortune turned it in so diametrically opposite a direction that H.R.H. found himself owing a considerable sum to the very man who, when he had been in the Prince's debt, had begged for and obtained a delay for payment. Now at this particular moment it was a secret to no one in that section of Society near the Prince of Wales that his Royal Highness was with us many ventures to call "hard up," owing to the terrible calls made upon his purse on the occasion of an auspicious public event which had lately taken place. He naturally, therefore, without of course condescending to express his wishes in that particular, expected his friend to do as he had been done by, and grant in his turn the delay which on a former occasion he had prayed for and obtained. Nothing could possibly be more natural or more a matter of course. The Prince's feelings may be better imagined than described when, within forty-eight hours after the debt had been incurred, he received a dunning letter from the man he had but a few weeks before indulged with a delay. Unnecessary to say, the money was sent forthwith, but without a line, and the following day H.R.H. expressed his opinion of the matter very freely in the bowling alley.

Much has been said of the horsemanship indulged in by certain members of the Marlborough House coterie, and there can be no doubt that much of what has been related is true, though perhaps exaggerated. The Prince himself is not averse to practical jokes, as the following anecdote will prove. A few years back it so happened that H.R.H. happened to be staying in a certain house in the country, where a well-known M.P. (easily recognisable by his white hair on the back of his head, and his monstrous pin-medal of the Prince of Wales) chanced also to be on a visit. The slavish reverence for the Prince which at that time inspired our most estimable friend was a secret to no one, and the subject of much sarcasm and laughter among younger men who lived too near Royalty to believe in the divinity thereof. One morning, very early, just as night was struggling into dawn, a valet, suddenly and in great haste, entered the room of the sleeping senator and exclaimed, excitedly, "I beg your pardon, sir, but His Royal Highness would be pleased to see you without delay." Half believing that the Crown was in danger, and as placed as Punch by the thought that he should have been called upon in such a moment of peril, our poor friend sprang from the bed, hastily robed himself in his dressing-gown, and fled to the door, there, alas! to fall across a string placed there on purpose, headlong into an immense tub of cold water! Very sensibly hiding his discomfiture, he sank for his servant, and left the house without delay. A few days afterwards the following paragraph appeared in the agony column of the Times:—"If C. S. will return to his loving friends at Scarborough, all past offences will be forgiven and forgotten."—A. E.—Whitehall Review.

REMARKABLE ECHOES.

In the sepulchre of Metella, the wife of Sulla, in the Roman Campagna, there is an echo which repeats five times, in five different keys, and will also give back with distinctness a hexameter line which requires two and a half seconds to utter it. On the banks of the Naha, between Bingen and Coblenz, an echo repeats seventeen times. The speaker may scarcely be heard, and yet the responses are loud and distinct, sometimes appearing to approach, at other times to come from a great distance. Echoes equally beautiful and romantic are to be heard in our own islands. In the cemetery of the Abernethy family, at Paisley, when the door of the chapel is shut, the reverberations are equal to the sound of thunder. If a single note of music is breathed, the tone ascends gradually with a multitude of echoes, till it dies in soft and bewitching murmurs. In this chapel is interred Margery, the daughter of Bruce, and the wife of William Wallace. The echo at the "Eagle's Nest," on the banks of Killarney, is renowned for its effective repetition of a bugle call, which seems to be repeated by a hundred instruments, until it gradually dies away in the air. At the report of a cannon, the loudest thunders reverberate from the rock, and die in seemingly endless peals along the distant mountains. At the Osade of Simonetta, a nobleman's seat about two miles from Milan, a surprising echo is produced between the two wings of the building. The report of a pistol is repeated by this echo sixty times; and Addison, who visited the place on a somewhat foggy day, when the air was unfavorable to the experiment, counted fifty-six repetitions. At first they were very quick, but the intervals were greater in proportion as the sound decayed. It is asserted that the sound of one musical instrument in this place resembles a great number of instruments playing in concert. This echo is occasioned by the existence of two parallel walls of considerable length, between which the wave of sound is reverberated from one to the other until it is entirely spent.—The World of Wonders.

NEWSPAPER STATISTICS.

An industrious bookbinder at Wursburg, says the Academy, has collected statistics of the newspapers of the different countries of the world, with the object of showing the proportionate representation of distinctively Catholic opinions in the periodical press. It appears that Europe can boast of 13,980 newspapers and periodicals, of which only about 1 in 14, or 837, are Catholic in tendency. The largest proportion is shown by Belgium—164 out of 260. Great Britain and France, a Protestant and Catholic country, have the same number of Catholic journals, 42; only in Britain it is 42 out of 2,600, in France 42 out of 2,000. According to Herr Leo Wölfl's statement, all the Catholic papers in Paris can only claim 6,090 subscribers between them, while the Univers is said to sell only 7,000 copies in the whole of France. Germany exhibits the largest issue of newspapers, of which 1 in 14 is Catholic. Austria, with a third of the total issue of Germany, shows 1 in 13. Here again the difference between the Protestant and the Catholic Empire is very marked. Italy has 1 in 7; Spain only 1 in 8. Turning to North America we find a total of 8,600, somewhat more than Britain, France, and Germany together, of which 119 are Catholic, while the great Catholic continent of South America shows out of 1,000 only 11 newspapers representing its dominant religion. Neither Africa nor Australia has a single Catholic periodical, while Asia has 1 out of 873.

BEAUTIFUL THINGS.

Beautiful faces are those that wear—
It matters little if dark or fair—
Wholesome humors printed there.

Beautiful eyes are those that show,
Like crystal panes where heart-fires glow,
Beautiful thoughts that burn below.

Beautiful lips are those whose words
Leap from the heart like songs of birds,
Yet whose utterance prudence guards.

Beautiful hands are those that do
Work that is earnest and brave and true,
Moment by moment the long day through.

Beautiful feet are those that go
On kindly ministries to and fro—
Down lowliest ways, if God will it so.

Beautiful shoulders are those that bear
Careless burdens of homely care,
With patient grace and daily prayer.

Beautiful lives are those that bless—
Silent rivers of happiness,
Whose hidden fountain but few may guess.

Beautiful twilight, at set of sun,
Beautiful goal, with race well won,
Beautiful rest, with work well done.

Beautiful graves, where grasses creep,
Where brown leaves fall, and drifts lie deep
Over worn-out hands—oh, beautiful sleep!

LOVER (in French)—"Angelina, je t'adore." Angelina (who hadn't studied the language).—"Shut it yourself; you left it open."

THOUGHTS AT CYPRUS.—The disembarkation of the troops at Cyprus was conducted under the management of the Duke of Edinburgh. As there were 9,000 men, besides horses and stores, to be removed from the transports, which could not approach nearer than a mile and a half from the shore, the operation was a difficult one; but it was most promptly and efficiently performed by His Royal Highness, whose activity and energy earned the hearty commendation of the chief authorities.

At last good news comes from the famine districts in China. Rain has fallen on the thirsty land, and in sufficient quantities to hold out a promise of fair autumn crops. All that is now immediately required, therefore, is to find support for the sufferers until the grain is once more gathered in. But the far more important question of how can such visitations be avoided for the future still remains for the consideration of the Chinese Government. That, unless prevented, they are likely to recur, may be gathered from the records of the past. History states that during the last dynasty—that is to say, the period of 290 years—extending from 1368 to 1628—the provinces now suffering from drought were visited by similar periods of famine no fewer than forty times. No doubt these famine periods varied much in intensity, but that the extreme verge of misery was sometimes reached may be gathered from the ominous statement appended to the account of one of them that "men eat each other." The records of the present dynasty are not yet available, but there is no reason to suppose that the droughts have, under the Manchou rule, been less frequent than formerly. In fact the only hope for the district lies in the introduction of a complete system of irrigation. The soil being composed of a thick bed of loess is easily percolated by water, and is thus at the double disadvantage of requiring constant showers to fertilize the grain, and of having the only water supply—rivers and streams, for springs are never found in the loess—invariably below the surface of the land.
